

Digital Humanities internship at Carnegie Mellon

WSU School of Information Sciences Information on behalf of WSU School of Information Sciences

Tue 1/30/2018 12:51 PM

To: SISINF@LISTS.WAYNE.EDU <SISINF@LISTS.WAYNE.EDU>;

Carnegie Mellon University's digital scholarship center, dSHARP, is offering an eight week summer internship to occur between May 29th and August 24th, 2018 (exact dates flexible).

The Summer Intern will be expected to work on two to four pre-existing projects during their tenure, with the projects determined based on how their skills and interests best match with current center and faculty projects. Example projects they might work on include the Bridges of Pittsburgh (databases, GIS, graph theory), the Carnegie Mellon Encyclopedia of Science History (history of science, web publishing, editorial work), or Digits (digital preservation). As appropriate, the Summer Intern may also work collaboratively with center faculty to develop digital resources for the dSHARP website (WordPress, digital pedagogy).

See link below for more information.

<http://dsharp.library.cmu.edu/2018/01/10/digital-scholarship-summer-internship/>